Tulsa — The Eastern Oklahoma chapter of the Association of Fundraising Professionals has elected its board of directors for 2016, selecting Allison B. Walden as president.

“It is an honor to serve the eastern Oklahoma chapter of the Association of Fundraising Professionals as this year’s president,” said Allison B. Walden, senior vice president of resource development for the Tulsa Regional Chamber. “AFP of Eastern Oklahoma is a thriving, local network of more than 150 fundraisers and nonprofit executives united by a common purpose — to advance the profession and equip the professional. Our chapter is dedicated to the pursuit of inclusion, relevance and influence both for the benefit our membership and for the advancement of a culture of philanthropy across our region. We have many exciting things planned for the year, and have assembled a stellar team of volunteer professionals to direct our chapter’s many activities from our National Philanthropy Day Conference and Awards to our monthly luncheon programs.”
